

LINGERIE CHARMS WITH ITS DAINTINESS

What appeals to the average woman more than the dainty, fluffy folds of her lingerie? These hold for her some indescribable fascination which cannot be fathomed. The soft delicate fabrics touch the truly feminine string and the woman responds willingly to the lure of their recourse. Slyly and secretively will my lady purchase these bits of finery just for the sheer pleasure of calling them her own.

The Pockets Are a Feature

But these purchases are not without discernment, for the modern woman thinks twice even though she is not thoroughly conscious of it. Crepe de Chine is one of the most durable fabrics for underwear, and it is being used to a great extent. One of the shops is showing a very extreme model of flesh crepe de Chine and black Chantilly lace. This of course is a luxury even an extravagance, and not every woman would indulge in this fad.

Figured Material for Underwear

Besides the appearance of lace, one sees infrequently allover figured material, usually silk and sometimes Georgette crepe. This dainty flowered material looks just like a dream when made into the clever new designs that the creators of fashion are showing. One nightgown which attracted my attention was developed in flesh-colored Georgette and a tiny lemon yellow flower spotted all over it. The neck was edged with this same delicate shade of yellow ribbon, and the high waistline was finished with tiny buds so much like the ones in the material that it took careful study to tell the difference.

In the same shop I saw a charming pair of pajamas. They had the mandarin coat and the straight edged trousers. The material was the most retiring orchid shade that I have ever seen. The color itself seemed to tell of its quaintness and charm. The only trimming on these silken things were bands of heavy satin ribbon of a slightly darker shade. Whether one be light or black of tresses, I'm sure these would be far the most becoming pajamas that one could find.

Silks of the Orient

And, apropos of the lingerie, let me tell you of a kimono that held me gasping and spellbound for fully an hour. The lines were simple, being straight from the neck to the hem, but the material bespoke such wealth, such elegance that one would feel like an all-powerful ruler with these silken folds wrapped about one.

The colors had all the warmth of the Orient and all their mystery and fascination. There were reds and oranges so well blended that one was not aware of the change of color until one rubbed one's eyes to see if they were dreaming. And then most unexpected-

A Clever New Design

edly a spot of turquoise would appear and beg your forgiveness for its unceremonious appearance. Yes, it was fairly ablaze with color, and the more you looked the more appeared. The sleeves were simple and the whole thing just wrapped around and fastened somewhere on the side.

A Simple Nightgown Design

Illustrated here is a charming yet very simple nightgown. The construction of it is very simple and it may be easily made at home. The combination shown here is indeed a wonderful little thing. The front-closing corset cover is attached to the open drawers which are plain at the waistline, or the petticoat drawers which are full at the waistline and in envelope style. A dainty bit of embroidery makes an attractive trimming.

THE RED CROSS

Medina Red Cross sewing rooms will not be open on Thanksgiving day.

Christmas Cartons

Red Cross has again extended time on Christmas cartons for soldiers overseas. The limit is now Nov. 30, and it is hoped that by this provision every label will be received. If, however, the labels have not been received from overseas by this date (Nov. 22), the committee has been provided with additional labels so that the nearest relative, by making out an affidavit, the form of which appears elsewhere in this paper, may receive a label and carton.

The Christmas Committee will be at the Library rooms every afternoon, except Thanksgiving and Sunday from 1 o'clock to 5, also Friday and Saturday evenings.

It is hoped that none will be "scared stiff" by the iron-clad carton oath and thereby weaken in enthusiasm for remembering the soldiers overseas. The little 9x3x4 may save the day for some homesick soldier boy. If you know a soldier who has no kin or none who is caring for him, here is your opportunity. Sign up an affidavit and send him some smokes and some sweets in a khaki handkerchief.

For Refugee Babies

Lodi Auxiliary has made an interesting donation to the chapter supplies in the form of three beautiful and complete infant layettes. The materials, costing about five dollars for each layette, were purchased with money from the salvage of old bottles and magazines collected by boys and girls.

Salvage Work which has been such a conspicuous factor in Red Cross work of large cities has been neglected in the rural communities. There should be an organized effort to collect and find a market for paper, rubber, leather, tin ware (not cans) and rags in Medina County Red Cross.

Red Cross Work Far From Finished

(Lake Division News)
This stirring message to Red Cross Chapters comes from national headquarters:

"Carry on" is the key-note of a Red Cross statement of policy just issued by National Red Cross headquarters in view of the signing of the armistice. The statement which says "but even with peace, let no one suppose that the work of the Red Cross is finished," was telegraphed to Lake Division headquarters for the information of the thousands of Red Cross workers in the states of Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky. The statement reads:

"On February 10 last year, nearly six weeks before the United States declared war, the National Red Cross headquarters advised its chapters to prepare for war. That which has followed in the records of the Red Cross in helping to win the war and to relieve the suffering growing out of it, constitutes something of which every American citizen has a right to be proud. Every Red Cross worker must feel a sense of satisfaction in having a share in it all.

Even With Peace, Work Will Go On
"But even with peace, let no one suppose that the work of the Red Cross is finished. Millions of American boys still are under arms; thousands of them are sick and wounded. Owing to a shortage of shipping it may take a year or more to bring our boys home from France. But what-

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.
